

FMM West Africa

Support to Free Movement of Persons & Migration in West Africa

MIGRATION POLICY DEVELOPMENT

The Free Movement and Migration (FMM) West Africa project seeks to foster policy coherence at the regional level to ensure that the ECOWAS migration policy be consistent with other regional strategies and policies. At the national level, the project will support the preparation and adoption of national migration policies and the mainstreaming of migration into national development agenda.

FMM West Africa is funded by the European Union and the ECOWAS Commission. It is implemented jointly by the International Organization for Migration, the International Centre for Migration Policy Development and the International Labour Organization.

POLICY DEVELOPMENT ADVISORY SUPPORT

- Provide technical guidance and expertise to the ECOWAS Commission to support the development of a regional migration policy
- Support the preparation and adoption of national migration policies in selected ECOWAS Member States through the provision of training, policy advice and technical expertise
- Promote the mainstreaming of migration into national development strategies
- Commission policy-oriented studies on the most topical aspects of free movement of persons and migration in the region

INSTITUTIONAL CAPACITY-BUILDING

- Conduct trainings on migration policy development, targeting both the ECOWAS Commission as well as the national experts of its Member States and Mauritania

This project is funded by the European Union and ECOWAS
