The Free Movement and Migration (FMM) West Africa project supports free movement and migration in the region.

FMM West Africa aims at strengthening the capacities of the ECOWAS Commission and national governments in the area of Labour Migration. It supports ECOWAS in implementing its Labour and Employment Policy and Action plan adopted in 2009 and building its capacity in labour migration management.

The project also supports the improvement of the labour market information systems in the region and regional standard setting for the protection of migrant workers and promotes regional dialogue on labour migration.

FMM West Africa is funded by the European Union and the ECOWAS Commission. It is implemented jointly by the International Organization for Migration, the International Centre for Migration Policy Development and the International Labour Organization.
